

Victoria F. Phillips –

Ms. Phillips is on the faculty of the American University Washington College of Law. She teaches communications and intellectual property law and serves as the Assistant Director of the Glushko-Samuels Intellectual Property Law Clinic. She also helped found the law school's Program on Information Justice and Intellectual Property. Before joining the WCL faculty to help launch these programs in 2001, she was Chief of the Legal Branch of the Mass Media Bureau of the Federal Communications Commission and counsel in the Office of General Counsel. While at the FCC she worked on a wide range of mass media policy proceedings including those related to broadcast ownership, broadcast public interest obligations, digital television conversion, children's television, public television and political programming. Before joining the FCC she served as the Assistant General Counsel of the National Endowment for the Humanities and practiced communications and intellectual property law at Wiley, Rein and Fielding in Washington D.C. and clerked for Edward S. Northrop, U.S. District Judge in Baltimore, Maryland.

Her articles include Summing Up the Public Interest: A Review of "Localism and Diversity: Meaning and Metrics" edited by Philip M. Napoli, 60 FED. COMM. L.J., 157 (2007); Commodification, Intellectual Property and the Women of Gee's Bend, 15 AM. U. J. GENDER SOC. POLICY & L. 359 (2007) and On Media Consolidation, the Public Interest and Angels Earning Wings, 55 AM. U. L. REV. 613 (2004).