

American University Washington College of Law
Center for Human Rights and Humanitarian Law and
The National Institute of Military Justice

BOUMEDIENE V. BUSH AND THE FUTURE OF US DETENTION POLICY

On June 12, 2008, the US Supreme Court ruled that Lakhdar Boumediene, a Guantanamo Bay detainee, has a right to habeas corpus under the US Constitution. What does this decision mean for other detainees at Guantanamo petitioning for a writ of habeas corpus? How will this affect US detention policy? Where do the current presidential candidates stand on this issue?

Join the Center for Human Rights and Humanitarian Law and the National Institute of Military Justice for an analysis of the Court's decision with noted experts in the field. Lunch will be served.

Tuesday, September 23

12:00-1:20 PM

American University Washington College of Law (WCL)
Room 101

Scheduled speakers:

Eugene R. Fidell, President, National Institute of Military Justice

Richard Samp, Chief Counsel, Washington Legal Foundation

Stephen Vladeck, Professor, Washington College of Law

Richard Wilson, Professor, Washington College of Law

WCL is located at 4801 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC, 20016

For more information about this and other upcoming events, please visit the Center's website at <http://www.WCLCenterforHR.org> or NIMJ at <http://www.nimj.org/>