To Preserve Meaningful Judicial Review

49 Admin. L. Rev. 171 (1997)

Abstract by Sarah P. Kenney

This article summarizes the historical role that the judicial system played in developing the current state of the administrative law system. In addition to explaining courts' different reactions to administrative functions, this article explains the barriers to judicial review created by the courts. The author argues that the injury-in-fact standard and presumption of judicial review are necessary components to the retention of administrative legitimacy.
