

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT LAW & POLICY PUBLICATION

EXPLORING HOW TODAY'S DEVELOPMENT AFFECTS FUTURE GENERATIONS AROUND THE GLOBE

Call for Papers: Climate Law Reporter Submissions Due: January 12, 2009

Sustainable Development Law and Policy ("SDLP") is accepting submissions for its Climate Law Reporter, focusing on the latest advancements in climate law.

SDLP's annual Climate Law Reporter provides a forum for practitioners to discuss the legal, social, and political currents in climate law. Potential topics include but are not limited to: Post-Kyoto negotiations, Climate related litigation, Climate law and the new administration, Regional climate initiatives, Carbon reduction programs, Carbon regulation and trading, or Human rights and climate. SDLP aims to represent a range of viewpoints, including those from academia, the private sector, public sector, multilateral organizations, and others. View recent issues at <http://www.wcl.american.edu/org/sdlp/>.

Requirements for Submission

Submit article or abstracts for consideration to sdlp@wcl.american.edu. Summaries are due: January 5, 2009. Final papers are due: January 12, 2009. A summary is not required but only complete submissions will be accepted after January 5.

- Page/Word limit: 15 pages (double spaced, 12-point Times New Roman font, ~3500 words).
- Electronic Format: Emailed in Microsoft Word.
- Article Format: Follow the format presented in previous SDLP issues. Articles must include:
 - Introduction outlining the article
 - Conclusion summarizing findings, arguments, and/or recommendations
- Citations: Provide a citation to every fact, opinion, statement, and quote that is not your original idea.
 - Include the name and author of the cited source, title of publication, publisher, date of publication, relevant page numbers, and website address (if applicable).
- Author Biography: Include a 3-4 sentence biography and indicate whether you would like your email address included with the published article.
- Supplementary Information: We encourage submission of photographs and graphics to accompany your article. Please send proof of permission to use others' images.

We reserve the right to reject submissions or hold submissions on file for later publication. We also reserve the right to revise your submission and/or cut text. You will have the opportunity to accept or reject any revisions. SDLP accepts submission of timely articles that have already been published elsewhere with written permission from the previous publisher.

SDLP is available online at LexisNexis, Westlaw, VLex and Hein Online and is widely distributed in the Washington, DC community and worldwide to law and graduate schools, representatives of international organizations, and environmental law and sustainable development practitioners worldwide. You can also view recent SDLP issues at <http://www.wcl.american.edu/org/sdlp/>.