Join experienced social justice lawyers, including leaders in the Law4BlackLives collaborative, in an interactive workshop. Participants will have the opportunity to strengthen their understanding of how to work collaboratively with organizers and activists to build social movements.

Participants will:

- Explore different roles legal advocates play with movements & trade-offs of each
- Identify the core strategies, tactics, and skills of movement legal work
- Share real stories of cases/campaigns and constructively reflect on challenges and opportunities; and
- Discuss power & privilege and the importance of an anti-oppression framework in community lawyering.

Facilitators:

- Jeena Shah, Rutgers Law School, Human Rights and Civil Rights Law Clinic
- Sunita Patel, Practitioner-in-Residence, AUWCL, Civil Advocacy Clinic
- Other advocates invited

This program is co-sponsored by the WCL Office of Public Interest and the Office of Diversity Services and the Center for Human Rights and Humanitarian Law
